FISCAL COURT.

Much Interest Taken in the Move For Good Roads.

Turnpike Election Asked For By a Large Delegation of Business Men.

The Fiscal Court has been in session this week with all of the eight justices present. In the absence of Judge Candler, who is sick, Esq. Buckner was elected chairman.

The usual routine business occupied the first day and a half. Wednesday at 2 p. m., the court gave a hearing to a delegation of Hopkinsville business men, asking that a proposition to vote on free turnpikes be presented this fall. A memorial was offered by Judge Jas. Breathitt, M. C. Forbes, L. Yonts and T. C. Hanbery. The discussion occupied an hour and a half, and was listened to by a large and enthusiastic crowd. All of the speeches were strong arguments in favor of good roads.

The court yesterday took up the matter for action and a proposition was presented, providing for an election to vote for enough bonds to build about 45 miles of new pike and buy up 55 miles of toll pikes. The plan is to make at least six leading roads free pikes to the county line, distributing the proposed improvements upon an equal basis.

A substitute was offered to appoint a commission to treat with the present turpike companies and secure options on their roads and report in thirty days.

This substitute was passed by Judge Candler's vote, the judge having recovered from the illness that kept him away the first of the week. The justices voted 4 to 4.

This for the time being postpones the action in this very important matter.

MORE CONVICTS.

Four Defendants Given Three Years Each in Penitentiary.

The jury in the case of Henry Slaughter, Wiley Johnson, Frank Rives and Buss Radford, the four negroes on trial in the Circuit Court charged with stealing tobacco valued at several hundred dollars, from Longview farmers, returned a verdict of guilty. Defendants were each given three years in the penitentiary. The indictments against Lewis Major, col., charging a similar offense, was dismissed, and the case will be re-submitted to the next grand jury. Major's bond was fixed at $200, requiring him to answer any indictment that might be found against him charging him with knowingly receiving stolen goods.

Robt. McGaughey, col., breaking store house, verdict of not guilty. Sam Pryor, carrying a concealed deadly weapon, dismissed. The case of the Commonwealth against the same party, charged with malicious shooting, was given to the jury Wednesday noon, but a verdict had not been reached yesterday afternoon.

In the case of Jessie Giles, col., indicted for petit larceny, the charge was waived and defendant entered a plea of guilty of taking the property of another, and was fined $50.

The case of Charlie Hampton, col., charged with breaking an office, was taken up yesterday. There are four indictments against defendant.

Died of Whooping Cough.

The little 15-months-old daughter of Mr. Thos. Hayes died at the home of its parents, one mile east of the city, yesterday morning, of whooping-cough. The interment will take place in Hopewell to-day.

Mr. John T. Edmunds spent yesterday in Louisville.

NOT TILL MONDAY.

Will The Decision Be Handed Down at Frankfort.

Indictments Expected To Be Returned This Week—Culton to Testify.

Frankfort, Ky., April 4.—The decision of the court of Appeals in the governorship case will not be handed down until Monday. The Judges have held several consultations, and inquiries made to-day for certain authorities lead to the belief that there will be a dissenting opinion written by Judge DuKelle. This would indicate that a majority of the court will affirm Judge Field's decision.

Indictments Probable This Week. A half dozen more witnesses were before the grand jury to-day, and it is believed that several indictments will be found Friday or Saturday in the Goebel assassination case.

Col. T. C. Campbell and Mr. Arthur Goebel returned here to-night, and were in conference with Commonwealth's Attorney Franklin and others. Mr. E. E. Hogg, the brother-in-law of Culton, as his attorney, arrived to-night, and so did Mr. L. G. Crawford, of Newport, who is Youtsey's half-brother and attorney. It is believed that Youtsey, Culton and others who have been arrested will be taken before the grand jury this week.

FERGUSON-MILLER.

Hopkinsville Couple Elope to Clarksville and Get Married.

Wednesday afternoon Mr. John Ferguson, an attach of the New Era office, and Miss Bertie Miller, niece of Mrs. Emma Boyd, with whom she lived, eloped to Clarksville and were married at the Arlington hotel. They were accompanied by Mr. William Williamson and Miss Josie Diaguid.

Only the most intimate friends of the young couple knew of their intentions and the announcement of their marriage was quite a surprise to their many friends.

The wedding party returned home Wednesday night and for the present Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson will board with the groom's parents on Fourteenth street.

DIED OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Remains Taken To Princeton and Interred Wednesday.

The wife of Mr. J. K. Postma, the well known florist, died at an early hour Tuesday morning at her home on Durrett Avenue of Bright's disease, aged 26 years. She leaves several children, one of them only a month old. The remains were shipped to Princeton, her former home, Wednesday, and the interment followed in Princeton cemetery.

THE OSBORNE PEOPLE

ROAD GRADES.

Carefully Prepared Article On This Subject.

Bulletin From The Experimental Station At Knoxville, Tenn.

It is now appearing more clearly every day that a judicious use of the road tax is one of the great factors that have to do with the advance of a community in wealth. It is extravagant to build a road with a surface costly enough for heavy hauling, but with grades too steep for any but the lighter loads. To harmonize is to economize. So it is worth while to seek for harmony between the grades and surface of a road. In this inquiry hair-splitting accuracy, which interests nobody but the theorist, will be avoided. And, as becomes serious men in considering an important subject, no greater accuracy will be indulged in than has to do with dollars and cents.

How hard a pull a horse should deliver to his traces depends on the pull he exerts on the road, and on the resistance of the road. The average horse in this southern country cannot deliver a pull of more than 90 pounds to his traces, for any considerable time, even at a walk, without hurtful over-exertion. Thus 180 pounds is quite as much of a pull as should regularly be required of an ordinary pair of horses in the South. But it must be noticed that this is the pull on the traces, and not the weight of the load.

Next it must be observed that the pull needed to draw a given load depends on the grade and on the roadway; for we shall tacitly ascribe to the last or ignore resistance from other sources. The roadway always opposes the motion, whether uphill, downhill, or on a level, with a force of so many pounds per ton of gross load hauled. The amount of pull thus exacted depends on the character and condition of the roadway. Practically it is not affected by any ordinary grade. Line A of the table shows how much it is on the average for roads of the kind given when in good condition.

The effect of the grade is to pull against motion uphill, but with motion downhill. A given grade pulls each ton of gross load with a mean. On a level a horse can draw 40 times as much on steel as on sand; on a 3 per cent. grade, less than 7 times as much; on a 9 per cent. grade, about 3 times; while on a 20 per cent. grade, barely 2 times as much. If we compare steel with macadam we shall see that on a level, a horse can draw 6 times as much on steel as on macadam; on a 3 per cent. grade, 13.4 times as much; while on a 9 per cent. grade, only 1.4 as much. Thus, a road of high class has little advantage over one of lower class if the grades are heavy.

As already pointed out the pull of the team, ascending, is divided into two distinct parts. The part spent in overcoming the resistance of the roadway is entirely lost. But the part that overcomes the downward pull of the grade is not lost, but is simply spent in accumulating work for future use. The amount of this last, per ton of load, is a definite quantity for any given vertical ascent, and cannot be increased or diminished in any way whatever. Every bit of it is recovered on the descent, as we shall see. If not recovered too fast it all goes to relieving the team. But, if recovered too fast, the excess is wasted by the brake, or the team has to undo it by the additional work of holding back.

In the descent the grade pulls forward and the roadway holds back with the amounts, per ton of load, already pointed out. So long as the pull of the grade does not exceed the resistance of the road way there is no waste. The team pulls with a force equal to the difference and gets more or less of relief at every step. But when the grade pulls harder than just enough to overcome the resistance of the roadway the brake must be used, or the team must hold back, and waste results. This shows that there should be a definite limit, different for each kind of roadway to the steepness of grade. Thus for sand, which offers a resistance of 400 pounds per ton, a 20 per cent. grade, which pulls with 292 pounds, is somewhat below the limit. But such a grade on steel, which openly opposes 10 pounds, would give an excess of 381 pounds to be wasted by the brake.

One half of one percent. is the limit for the grade on steel. Extending the examination to the other roadways we see that, to avoid waste on the descent, the grade should be steeper than 20 (about) 9, 3 or 4 per cent., respectively, on a sand, dirt, macadam, or steel roadway. It now remains to see whether conditions connected with the ascent demand the lowering of these limits. In the first inquiry we had for guidance well-known facts from mechanics, and figures from the dynamometer. But in this second inquiry we must be guided also by human judgment. But this is based on much experience and is singular in its unanimity. It is the unanimous opinion of men who have had to do with horses, so far as the writer can learn, that two horses may, without harm, haul as great a load for a little while as four horses should for several hours, but no greater. In other words, a horse may properly, in an emergency, be required to put forth double his usual effort, but no more. Hence the pull added by an ascending grade should not exceed the resistance offered by the roadway. It will be seen that this places the limit of 20 (about) 9, 3, or a half per cent., respectively, on the steepness of grades to be used on a sand, dirt, macadam or steel, roadway. It should be noticed that the limits for ascent are precisely the limits previously found for descent. So long as the grades of a given road are not steeper than the limit thus pointed out for a roadway of its character the horse may haul a load every whit as heavy as if the road were absolutely level. The total amount of work he would do, in making the round trip, would be

While ascending the horse must exert the pull against the roadway and grade. Thus, a sand roadway calls for 400 pounds per ton, while steel calls for 10. A 20 per cent. grade calls for 292 pounds. Hence the pull needed to draw one ton up such a grade is 792 pounds on sand, but 402 on steel. In the same way it may be seen that pulls of 400 and 70 pounds, respectively, are needed in ascending a 3 per cent. grade on sand and steel.

Now notice what these figures mean. On a level a horse can draw 40 times as much on steel as on sand; on a 3 per cent. grade, less than 7 times as much; on a 9 per cent. grade, about 3 times; while on a 20 per cent. grade, barely 2 times as much. If we compare steel with macadam we shall see that on a level, a horse can draw 6 times as much on steel as on macadam; on a 3 per cent. grade, 13.4 times as much; while on a 9 per cent. grade, only 1.4 as much. Thus, a road of high class has little advantage over one of lower class if the grades are heavy.

It should be remarked, in closing, that, while gentle grades may call for more or less of winding they do not, of necessity, call for much in the way of cuts and fills. But they do call for a good engineer. The trifling increase in length of road due to these windings is generally more than compensated for, in time by the greater speed which the gentler grades allow to the lighter traffic, and in money by the reduced rain wash. Finally, it will, without doubt, be necessary to sacrifice transportation interests sometimes to cost of construction, right of way, etc., and thus to exceed the above grade limits. But this should not be done without grave reason, and without full recognition of the fact that it will impose a daily tax, for all time, on an ever increasing population.

JUMEL MANSION.

Famous Old House In The City Of Washington.

The Daughters of the American Revolution have inaugurated a movement to induce the city of New York to purchase for park purposes the Jumel mansion and the grounds which surround it on Washington Heights, above Harlem. This is one of the most imposing and interesting historical houses in the country. It was erected in 1758 by Roger Morris, and was a wedding present to his bride, Mary Phillips, the young woman who killed George Washington. During the revolution Washington occupied it for his headquarters, and there is a stump still standing on the ground to which he used to hitch his horse. Bret Harte has an autograph letter of Washington describing this habit and the stump.

Shortly after the revolution, when the Phillips family had returned to England, Stephen Jumel, a rich merchant of French extraction, purchased the place and lived there in great luxury for many years. He entertained Lafayette, Jerome Bonaparte and other illustrious people, and one of the legends is that the door into the dining room was made wider in order that Prince Napoleon and Mme. Jumel could pass through it arm in arm without disturbing that lady's erminette.

Mme. Jumel married Aaron Burr, and he lived there during the last years of his life. The house has since been occupied by various owners and is now the property of P. F. Earle, a hotel-keeper in New York.

George Washington courted Mary Phillips at the family mansion on the Hudson after he returned from the Braddock campaign, and that building is now the city hall of Yonkers. It was erected in 1682. Chicago Record.

MCKINLEY MAKES HIS BED.

The President has carried his point and whipped into line enough Republican Senators to pass his bill taxing the poor Porto Ricans a coming and a going. Porto Rico is denied free trade with the United States, of which it is now a territory, but is required to pay tariff duties on its products shipped into this country. The islands came to us voluntarily to escape the burdens of Spanish taxation without representation and the President has betrayed the confidence of the confiding and liberty loving people who asked for relief and has committed himself to these same old principles, that caused the American colonies to throw off the yoke of Great Britain and induce the Porto Ricans to ask for annexation to the United States. Coming to us as willing subjects, we refuse them the liberty they sought and proceed to tax them as Colonists, denied representation in congress. It matters not what the tariff rates may be fixed at. It is not the amount involved, but the principle involved. Senator Mason, a Republican, declared in his speech against the bill that it violates the constitution itself and that congress has no more right to tax the products of Porto Rico than it has to put a duty on products passing between New York and Washington. Editor Kohlsaat, of the Chicago Times-Herald, warns the President that he is trifling with the nation's honor and that the people will never submit to the unjust taxation of any part of the United States.

We live in a republic and not an empire. Porto Rico is a territory and not a colony and will some day be a State and not a possession to be taxed without representation.

President McKinley has whipped his bill through the Senate by a majority and its passage in the House is assured by a few votes. He has committed himself and his party to imperialism in its most odious form, a form that strikes at the very basis of our institutions. A new issue greater for the time being than the financial question, the question has been brought into the opening campaign. It is one that Democrats welcome.

They will meet the imperialists at Philippi in November.

Webster Davis, assistant secretary of the interior, who went to South Africa to investigate the war, has returned home and resigned his office and will explain upon the stump his reasons for severing his connection with the administration in sympathy with the oppression and destruction of the infant republics of South Africa. Admiral Dewey is out in an interview in the New York World declaring that he has changed his mind and is willing to run for President. When pressed to know what ticket he wanted to run on he declined to state. Since his first declaration on the subject, the admiral has married an ambitious wife and hence the change in his views. Unfortunately he finds no vacancy at the head of either ticket and may have to put up with second place after he decides which party to affiliate with.

ABOUT THE WEED.

Heavy Sales This Week and Rejections Very Light.

The tobacco market this week was fully up to last week's prices, all grades being strong and active. Considerable good leaf was disposed of at prices ranging from $7 to $8.10, while some fine leaf went as high as $11.25. Common to medium leaf brought from $3.35 to $7, and large ranged from $5.10 down to $3.00. It was a notable fact that the rejections amounted to a very small per cent. of the offerings. Of nearly 100 hog-heads offered by one house, only five per cent. failed to go. Receipts for the past week were very heavy and will continue to improve right along until the bulk of the crop has been delivered. The loose market is also quite active and sales are most satisfactory.

The dream of Bulgaria that came true was not remarkable. It would have been remarkable had it not proved correct.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers. They filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work. Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidneys.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries. It is used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists and one-dollar cases. You may have a sample bottle by mail. Some of Swamp-Root, free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmor & Co., Birmingham, N. Y.

Is The Leader's Grand Easter Opening of Millinery.

The Easter opening at the Leader began yesterday and Mrs. Levy's store was crowded through the day with ladies, all eager to see the new and exquisite creations of the millinery art. Mrs. Levy's stock this season is large and embraces all of the latest styles in the millinery line. Her store never showed to better advantage than now, the occasion of this opening, and hundreds have expressed their admiration at the grand display. The Leader opening will continue to-day and those who have not yet called should do so at once.

For Laughing Purposes Only.

There have been many less meritorious performances offered to patrons of the more pretentious play houses in Minneapolis than that of "The Girl from Chili," which holds forth this week at the Star theatre. Judged from a dramatic standpoint, it hardly rises to the dignity of any form of dramatic composition, but as the author announces that the skit was written for laughing purposes only, and that the audience undeniably laughs heartily continuously. Playwright Roberts and the company producing his work have achieved success. All but ten or twelve seats were sold last evening, indicating that there must be considerable curiosity to see the girls—Minneapolis, Minn., Tribune.
